

MAYHEM ma' hem;-em. n. The maiming of a person by depriving him of the use of any of his members which are necessary for him in defending himself or annoying his adversary; also, often extended by statute to cover all willful disfigurements of the body; severing of a body part.

What do we see in MAYHEM? Chaos, disorder, destruction? All of these are elements of Seaside High, but where does the maiming of a person, or the severing of body parts fit in with our school? Believe it or not, there is a relationship there. Somewhere, between that first scary day of Freshman year, and the wonderful moment of grabbing our diplomas and running as fast as we can from the institution that holds us captive for four long years, there is something lost, something severed from our once innocent Freshman souls. We enter into our Freshman year with a naiveness, gullibility, and youth like spirit that makes us think such absurd things such as: skipping is bad, we need to do all our homework, teachers are tough, due dates aren't serious, and everyone needs to look like everyone else to look good. Then we find ourselves in our Senior year, surrounded by MAYHEM, walking out the front doors, and skipping yet another class, wondering if we should even take the time to forge another family emergency note. If we remember to take our books home, maybe we will get around to doing some of our homework, but then again there will always be time to copy someone else's during channel one. Something has been lost, Seniors, who have known about the deadline for their research papers since the first day of school, find themselves driving to school early on the Tuesday after papers are due, to catch their English teachers, and get their half-finished papers graded. Something has been lost, when we do four months of homework all in one day, and turn it in on the Monday after the end of the semester. Something has been severed from our minds and from our bodies, all in the sense of MAYHEM. Yet in the same sense without this loss, there would be no gain. We now find ourselves as our own people. Between the dyed hair, tattoos, style changes, and more, we will all graduate as one class of individuals each going out into the world on our own. Severed from our clichés, comforts of familiarity, curfews, and the naiveness that we entered with, we will leave. We have lost so much in the process of growing up, but stand to gain much more in our futures. 19

class of 1997

Nearly thirteen years ago, the class of 1997 began their quest at a little place known as Kindergarten. The class was separated by region and the students were growing up in different environments. One day they would meet though, and the class slowly formed at Broadway Middle School. Eventually the path would guide them to SHS and that perhaps was the real beginning. Although the class of '97 was not known for its togetherness, there were still plenty of wild moments. Some happened at this very school, but many took place in the outer world and they can't be explained in this book.

So years down the road when we look back at our yearbooks trying to grab the youth we once had but lost, we will remember that at one time we felt like the lords of all creation and nothing else mattered. We as a class did everything in our power to push the administration to the edge with our inventions and ingenuity.

During our sophomore year, our class created the first garbage tree ever at SHS. Then there was the stunt when the entire class decided to stand up to the system and refused to participate in any Pep assemblies. And finally, there was the final straw when members of the senior class air band were accused of adding deviance to there rendition of Marilyn Manson's Sweet Dreams.

The class may have been the biggest band of hellraisers ever to enter the public schooling system, but we had our great moments as well. When we were young and before we learned the rules to the game, the class of '97 bonded together to capture the Spirit Jug for Homecoming Week during our sophomore year. Unfortunately, we never returned the Jug.

Perhaps the greatest moment of all was when we as a class brought the joint down with Bon Jovi's Shot Through the Heart for their sophomore air band. All in all it has been a wild thirteen year trip but all good things must come to an end. Everyone will go their separate ways and all our lives will change, but we will never forget our years in high school when we knew practically everyone and watched our dreams form or shatter.

And in the end we must never forget that our class knew how to funk the cobbler.—Jake Baum.

Baccalaureate by Reyna Sigurdson

We should have been pairs of ragged claws scuttling across the floors of silent seas, our class. We who began together years ago, like packs of wandering Dungeness; gangly limbs, similar personas, each attempting to crawl towards unknown destinations.

Starting elementary school at Seaside Heights, I was the girl who wrote good stories. Our class included Becca Shaffer, the smart girl who loved a challenge and got straight A's; Cute Mike Little, who all the little girls flocked to. Chris Hermansen, the class clown who we laughed at; Sarah Vellutini who was always surrounded by admiring friends; Pjetur Sigurdson, my cousin who always matched his clothes to his shoes. This is just to name a few. Now, as I'm finished with high school, I look at these former fifth grade classmates who are now my fellow graduates. Becca still loves a challenge, and was named a co-valedictorian for our class. Mike Little has been known to break a few hearts. I don't know where our class would be without master comedian and beatboxer Chris Hermansen. Sara Vellutini was recently voted "most social" by her fellow senior class mates. And my cousin Pjetur looks as though he should appear on the cover of GQ magazine.

After twelve years of schooling together, we the class of '97 are no longer a pack of indistinguishable crabs. As my father would say, we are happier than clams at high tide because soon we will be individual pairs of ragged claws scuttling across the floors of our own seas, with a destination point in mind.

ragged claws scuttling across the floors of our own seas, with a destination point in mind."

SAYING GOODBYE.

I was reading the 1969 SHS annual the other day and a thought occurred to me. High School is all pretty much the same regardless of where or when you go to school. Here it's been 28 years and everything seems exactly like it was then. We still have the same old tired traditions: Homecoming, Snowball, Prom, pep assemblies, the "in" crowd, etc. People are always telling me that high school years are the best times in your life. I've often wondered how anyone could possibly say such a thing about a time which hasn't occurred yet. Now that I'm at the end of the line, I think I see where this notion has come from. As I said earlier, the basic structure of high school is a time-honored tradition passed down through the years. For the most part, it doesn't change. This is why we find it so awkward looking through our parents old yearbooks; not because of the goofy hairstyles and funny clothes, but because they are doing the same things that we do now.

While all of us have taken a lot of flack for it, one of the things I find most admirable about the class of '97 is that we haven't just fallen into the time-honored mold of what a high school class should do. We've manipulated tradition to reflect what we're all about. This hasn't exactly gone over well. The culminating moment in my mind was Christmas Week 1995 when the leadership of our class refused to decorate a Christmas tree in the spirit of the holidays, electing instead to place a dead tree littered with garbage on the stage. Administration quickly removed the "eyesore" whenever company came by the school during this time period.

There were other moments as well. We've found a way to take ourselves out of Homecoming competitions every year since '95 when we won it. We've had inappropriate air-bands, inappropriate class banners, and overall, an inappropriate manner of doing things. Yell contests at pep assemblies have been virtually eliminated due to the number of times that our class has been unwilling to participate.

As we near the end of our education in Seaside school district, I find myself wondering what the class of 1997 will be like when let loose upon the supposed "real world" we have heard so much about. While questioning of authority is not always a bad quality, I wonder, do we have the guts to drop our cynical nature and actually become the leaders of the future? Perhaps time will tell. Although, if tradition holds, there will be no one in attendance at a reunion with whom to compare notes. — Kirk Reynolds

Although he has no idea where the rest of us are going, he's pretty sure of himself. Kirk Reynolds addresses the crowd at graduation night. Kirk was one of four co-Valedictorians.

How can you not look happy when the end of school is so near? Becca Shaffer, Alicia Stuart, and Katy Seeborg take a minute to enjoy themselves at Baccalaureate.

How we spent our summer vacation:

Between passing classes and being swept, most of us had a blast during the summer.

When we weren't spending quality time with parents, working the local tourist trade, and cleaning our rooms, we went to Disneyland, ball games, shopping in Portland, and to the beach.

- We surfed, boogied, swam, water skied, jet-skied, and laughed with our friends.

- We counseled kids at Camp Kiwanilong, sold t-shirts, carried trays of food and empty plates, cleaned hotel rooms, baked bagels, and slept late.

- We did a little fishing and planned for the hunting season.

- We camped at Spruce Run, Short Sands, and all up and down the Pacific Coast.

- We drove to Seattle, Ontario, British Columbia, and California.

- We flew to Alaska, Atlanta, Los Angeles, New York, & over seas.

- Once in a while we even hung out around the Prom right here at home.

"Hey Priddy, what's with the hat?"

—Josh Bradley

"Erin, did you break the tv?"

—Amy Dillon

"The 'fridge was ours... Hank, I'm proud of ya!"

—Brook Drumheller

"When you go on a trip, you really don't get much sleep. I don't think any money came up missing this year. I wish I was going again next year, in fact, I wish I could have stayed."

—Sara Fox

"I want Priddy's hat."

—Peter Gilbertson

"What's your talent?"

—Erin Goodman

"I remember Mr. Priddy saying 'I just got a call from the front desk—the people downstairs are complaining.'"

—Heather Kisvarday

"I think something is wrong with the windshield wipers."

—Eric Kranzush

"With no time to get ready, we had to dress alike."

—Tiffany LaMarche

"Thank God we all got back alive."

—Neil Priddy

"I'm still suspicious."

—Becca Shaffer

"So...but my point..."

—Pjetur Sigurdson

"Hey Hank, are you going shoulder-tapping tonight?"

—Alicia Stuart

LIFE'S A DANCE!

Saturday, November 16 was definitely a night worth remembering. Even the people who don't care for country music were satisfied. Aside from the fifteen minute wait just to get through the doors, the dance was a great success. For the first time ever, at least half the people decided to get all decked out in their hick gear and do a little line dancin'. The Boot Scootin' Boogie got more than seventy-five percent of the people out on the dance floor, and with the help of a few experienced line dancers, everyone was two-steppin' the night away! Saddle up buckaroos!

MAYHEM!

The opening assembly, on the previous Friday, modeled dress-up days on the "runway" and revealed the princesses who were rewarded with maple bars. During Homecoming Week there were lunch activities put on by each class: Tuesday the freshman had students find a piece of gum in a bag of flour, Wednesday the sophomores had a belching contest, Thursday the juniors had a game of musical chairs, and Friday the seniors chose not to have a lunchtime activity. Although there wasn't a Powder Puff game this year, the bonfire, a Homecoming tradition at Seaside High, was finally lit after being postponed for two straight years. To conclude the week, the Seagulls played British Columbia for the Homecoming Game and were once again victorious.—Jennifer Wascher and Casey Fulmer

What a contrast! Gary Terranova sings "Night and Day," with all his heart at Jazz Cabaret '96.

Before Sound Waves started their solos, the Broadway Ensemble, a group of Middle School choir students, also performed a song.

JAZZ CABARET AND FALL CONCERT

Jazz Cabaret was held at Broadway Middle School on November 20, 1996. With new choir teacher Michelle Starke, each Jazz Choir participant was able to choose their own solo song for the first time. As well as each solo, the entire Jazz Choir also performed two songs together. The Fall Choir Concert was held in the Cafetorium at SHS and was well attended.

Loud and clear! Josh Nordmark sings a solo as the rest of the choir waits for their turn. The choir sang for the first time at the fall concert.

Black Beauty! Kate van Breemen performs "Harlem Nocturne," at the Jazz Cabaret.

Being a good boy, Justin Flores waits for his cue to begin singing "Ain't Misbehavin'" after an introduction by MC, Ben Jackson.

All dressed up! Josh Archibald, Evan Reed, Jacque DeLisle, Becca Shaffer, Jodie McCracken, and Justin Flores all sing as part of the Madrigal Choir at the Fall Concert.

45

China, here I come! Becca Shaffer sings her interpretation of, "Slow Boat to China," in a butterfly dress at BMS.

Doin' the walk! Ian Anderson-Priddy was one of the eighteen individuals to perform a solo. He sings Taj Mahal's "Cake Walk Into Town," and dresses to match his bluesy song, Stetson and all.

Bang those drums! Josh Lively plays a drum accompaniment for the Sound Waves at the Jazz Cabaret. Other instrumentalists include: Michelle Starke on the piano, Deb Morris on the guitar, and Kevin Lake on the bass.

Wishin' it was summer! Amy Dillon wows the crowd with her solo, "Summertime," on the 20th of November.

He's got class! Evan Reed sings "Can't Take That Away From Me," one of a half dozen George Gershwin tunes performed for the Jazz Cabaret while the audience eats delicious desserts, sips at coffee and juice, and enjoys the show.

"I'm Dreaming Of A White Christmas. Just like..." The Importance Of Being Earnest

48

The Importance of Being Earnest, written by Oscar Wilde and performed by Seaside High School drama department was one of the many highlights of the early school year.

It was an invigorating experience for Travis Opperman and Michelle Starke, the two first year directors. Opperman ran crew, while Starke tackled stage direction.

Set in Victorian England, the satire hinged on mistaken identity, false names, and everyone's determination to marry, become, or kill off Earnest. Starke stated that she was excited that she had the opportunity to work with fresh faces.

Despite sophisticated humor and sets which seemed determined not to fit together until the last possible minute, fans enjoyed a good laugh at the expense of 19th century mores.

Miss Prism (Erin Miller) chatters to the local rev (Eric Olson).

ACADEMICS

school is cool

58 WELDING • ART PROJECTS • COMPUTER APPLICATIONS • KEYBOARDING • FOODS

It's all about what we can do and what we know! Kirk Reynolds, Sean Cole, Jesse McCulloch, Jake Baker, Hank Tallman, and Nick Stausholm Møller made up a Dream Team for the District "High Five" competition and took first! Not to be outdone, Trigonometry student Joel Whitlock won a first at Districts in the math competition and classmate Bowen Turetzky was third. Both went to State. Concert Choir also won first in Districts and took a bus to State!

But school isn't only books and numbers. At Seaside High School we are offered an array of electives, ranging from Foods to Small Engine Repair. These classes seem to be favorites among the students.

Each student possesses a skill that they excel at and with these classes they are offered hands on experiences in different fields. As Senior Codey Gearheart adds, "Shop classes can be very beneficial to those who are going into that type of work, but for others it is a chance to exercise their woodworking skills."

There are also advanced electives at SHS that allow students to explore areas a little more in depth. "I think the electives at our school give students the ability to take advanced level classes to help get ahead," noted Eric Kranzush.

The Alternative School run in the annex west of the main building allows students a different route to their education thanks to coordinator Karen Mattocks and aide Kevin Rohnke.

Whether it be arting, singing, writing, computing, figuring, building, welding, playing ball, speaking French, or baking dinner, students have many options at SHS.—Camille Beers

It's mathematical MADNESS

82

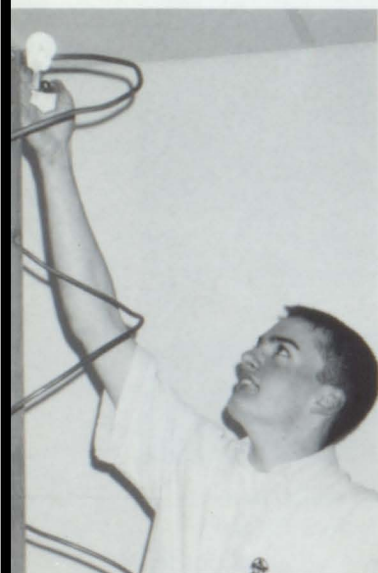

The Geometry classes built scale models of their dream house, but the genuine thrill of the year was one evening spent indoors and out in the rain.

It could have been just another boring Wednesday night, but the 19th of March was no such night for the young men and women who took part in the very first annual MATH NIGHT!

Through the night, young people ranging from ages 11-18 were able to take part in non-stop math fun. On display, and for the enjoyment of everyone, math night had model houses, amusement park miniatures, oragami, pop bottle rockets, catapults, sling shots, and mind boggling puzzles.

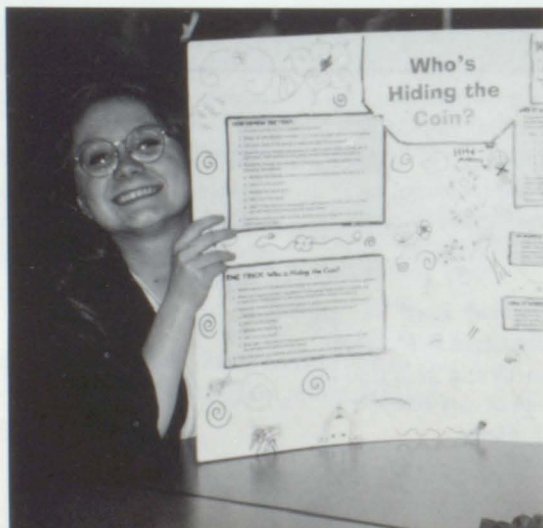

To top it off, there was food for everyone. Math night turned out to be a big success, and gave a lot of math students a little extra credit.

Reachin' Robert! Roley demonstrates the magical marble drop. Just like on Willy Wonka when they find a bad egg.

LARUS & SPONGE FACTS

- It is not uncommon for the Larus staff to stay at school past midnight to finish pages.
- The Larus is the scientific name for the seagull.
- The Sponge is controlled by a mere twelve people, and Jon Broderick.
- The name "Sponge," came from the idea that the annual literary magazine was an absorption of the best literary work at SHS.

Let me think about this: Camille Davidson reflects on what being on the Sponge staff really means.

Boy I'm happy to be in here: August Boyer works on tirelessly, with visitors, Jamie Irish and Liisa Erickson.

I can see clearly now the light board's on. . . I can see all pencil marks plain as day. Skye Wheeler-Santistevan sheds a little light on the subject as she finishes her timeless treasure. Photo by Alan Anderson-Priddy.

BOY'S SOCCER FACTS

- The Boy's Soccer Team took District One and League Championships, being only the second team to do this in the eight year district history.
- They defeated Astoria for the first time in SHS soccer history.
- They made it to soccer state playoffs for the first time in SHS soccer history.
- They led the district in cumulative goals scored, and were the team with the least goals scored against.
- Six players earned all district and all league honors.

FACTS ON THE LADIES

- A tie for first was shared by Seaside, Scappoose and St. Helens, for Cowapa League champions.
- Mandy Grant and Camille Beers were honored with First Team All League and First Team All District. While Megan Lucas earned Second Team and Lindsey Robison and Kerry Arndt recieved Honorable Mention. Alix Daggatt was First Team Goalkeeper.
- A lunar eclipse accompanied the ladies on a bus ride home from Scappoose.
- The Ladies record for the year was seven wins, six losses, and three ties.
- This years captains were Camille Beers, Mandy Grant, and Megan Lucas.

WRESTLING FACTS

- After placing 6th at State last year, Gabe Sunnell returned this year, taking 3rd.
- The 1997 team started out with forty-four members, which is more than any previous year in Coach Mattocks' coaching career.
- Toby Sunnell dislocated teammate Dustin Palmquist's elbow while practicing for an upcoming match.
- Seaside placed 1st at the Neahkahnne 9-way tournament with points earned by the entire team.
- Wrestling mats are big!
- Sixteen teams battled at the Pac Rim tournament held at SHS in January.
- Flats rule!

Takin' him to the mat! Senior Gabe Sunnell prepares for another pin, with a single arm bar against Rainier's Chad Dragoo at a home meet.

SWIMMING FACTS

- For the second time in three years, the girl's swim team swam away with the Cowapa League trophy, and for the first time in Seaside High School history, they swam away with the District Ten Championship too.
- A record high eight swimmers represented Seaside in the 4A State Championships in Corvallis: Barney Boisvert (of Warrenton), Shara Ford, Heather Kisvarday, Lesli Macomb, Kim Pogue, Leslie Smith, Jennifer Visser, and Jessica Williams.
- Boisvert took Seaside's highest place ever at State with a tie for first place in the 200 yard freestyle and a first in the 100 yard freestyle. Ford was the second highest finisher with a fifth in the 100 yard freestyle while Visser placed sixth in the 100 yard butterfly and twelfth in the 50 yard freestyle. Seaside also sent two relays to state: The 200 medley relay (Ford, Macomb, Visser, Kisvarday) finished 15th, and the 400 yard free relay (Visser, Williams, Smith, Ford) finished 16th with a new Seaside High School record.
- As an overall team, the girls placed twentieth at state, while the boy's team finished in seventeenth place.

SPORTS FACTS

- The varsity improved their league standing from last year.
- The varsity awarded sophomores Rachel Pfund and Nicole Mendenhall with Most Improved honors. This was the first year playing varsity for both.
- Sarah Whisler was named the varsity team captain.
- The J.V. had a very successful 16-5 season record.
- The freshman were undefeated in league games.
- The varsity will lose only two seniors; Tiffany LaMarche and Sarah Arndt.

Hey! . . . Can I get some competition out heer? When the team needs a quick two, they look no further than Adam Carlsen. Here he casually glances over the head of a scrappy LaSalle opponent to find open teammates.

Oh! . . . A spectacular move by Troy Madson! Troy gets the shot off as he weaves through the defense with a move even Marv Albert would be proud of.

Did you see that look? . . . Coach Jeff Meeuwsen indicating he can't believe it! Meeuwsen offered many wacky expressions during the season, sometimes just as exciting to watch as the games themselves.

Don't even think about it! When Alan Williams puts up a shot, the defenders don't even attempt to contest it. His teammates are so sure of his ability they just look on in amazement.

GIRLS TRACK FACTS

- Girls placed a close second at Disticts.
- Nine girls placed first or second at Disticts to go on to the State Meet in Eugene. They were: the 4 x 100 meter relay team—Sarah Arndt, Alix Daggat, Holly Nelson, and Kelli Truax; Erika Hamer—1500m and 3000m; Becky Benson—400m; Megan Lucas—800m; Truax—long jump and triple jump; Tiffany Phillips—high jump; and the 4 x 400m relay team—Lucas, Molly Brown, Hamer, and Benson. Kerry Arndt went as an alternate for both the 4 x 100m and the 4 x 400m.
- At State, Lucas, Hamer, and Truax all made the finals. Lucas placed sixth, Hamer eleventh, and Truax seventh.
- At the end of the year, the following people were given awards: Katie Parsons—Most Improved; Truax—Most Inspirational; Truax and Arndt—Coaches Award; Benson, Hamer, and Truax—Best Athlete of 1997.

Hurdles are so much fun. Jamie Schaumburg jumps over a hurdle to complete the 60 meter hurdle relay at the Anderson Relay Meet in Scappoose.

"I always start out too fast," says Megan Lucas of running the 800 meters. After the death of her father mid-season, she came back to place second at districts and then sixth at the State Meet.

Run, run, run as fast as you can! Rachel Hermansen, Terra Hiebert, and Erin Goodman race with each other during the Irish Mile at the McMinnville Grizzly Bear Open, the first meet of the season.

SOFTBALL FACTS

- Sophomore Nicole Mendenhall received First Team All-League for first base.
- Grace Hughes received All League Honorable Mention for her skill, "grace" and the Fifth highest batting average in the Cowapa League.
- Camille Beers was the only player on her team to hit a home run, out of the park. this year.
- Captains were Camille Beers, Bev House, and "walking wounded" Jill Bates.
- Kami Chamblin and coach Kay Terranova kept up a nonstop "battle" which included tp'ed houses and tomatoes in the shoes.

OTHER SPORT FACTS

- Ripping the head off, of an elk, is considered a sport of it's own.
- Nintendo does NOT classify as an "other sport."
- Quality Other sports are hunting, fishing, and bull fighting.
- When fishing after it rains, you're more likely to land yourself a big one!
- "Over the Top" is the premier other sports flick.

Like my head? Andy Shortman stops for a picture with the head of a borrowed kill. The Chevy is Shortman's dad's. Photo and elk by David Chestnut.

time off for good behavior

120 Seaside High School teachers retire

Claudette Eskola

"...persistent, dedicated, caring professional," describes thirty-year SHS veteran Claudette Eskola. Eskola transformed the high school from manual typewriters through Mac School (where the grades go) to the net. She looks forward to getting up in the morning when "I won't have to walk across the street to the school." Eskola and fellow retiree Bruce Buzzell were honored at the SEA banquet, the SHS Awards Assembly (shown here), a retirement banquet, and the staff breakfast.

Bruce Buzzell

"Buzzell departing." The tape began with the slow rise and fall of a military whistle which announces a plane takeoff. Bruce Buzzell was a decorated pilot, flying sixty-one combat missions in the early sixties. After twenty-nine years of teaching and coaching four sport, Buzzell takes off for retirement. Photos by Alan Anderson-Priddy.

Tell me more, tell me more, like does he have a car? Uh huh, uh huh, uh huh! Jazz choir singers Haley Mousely, Kate van Breemen, Rachel Hermansen, Chris Hermansen, Brian Toohey, and Josh Nordmark sing the Grease song, again at the spring Jazz Cabaret. Staff photo.

"Yes, I am all that!" Alisha Kulland and Amber Danielovich perform a parody of the Ricki Lake show in a closing performance of the Advanced Drama class as August Boyer watches. Photo by Liam Roley.

"I do solemnly swear to obey and uphold the duties of ASB Co-president." Shellie Dennis, our 1997-98 ASB Co-president with Krysti Balzer, and other newly elected and appointed ASB Officers are sworn in by the current ASB Officers. Photo by Alan Anderson-Priddy.

Ready, set, play! Jazz band members Josh Lively, Rhan Smith, and Alicia Stuart prepare for the last concert of the year. Photo by Melanie Kabanuk.

IN MEMORY

Molly Bruton • 1980-1996

As this year comes to an end, we must remember all the new friends we have made and the one we lost.

Molly Bruton was a girl not many people knew. They knew who she was on the outside or what they heard about her from other students. I wish they had the chance to know her as I did. They would have seen the girl who always had a smile on her face; the friend who kept secrets; and the person with a shoulder to lean on.

So many students have grown up with Molly and so many will continue to grow up with her in their hearts. Molly taught us to not be afraid of who we are and to always be ourselves. She was never embarrassed to act differently, think differently, or to do something out of the usual. She taught us to look inside to find out who a person really is and to remember them by what we found.—Shellie Dennis Molly as a freshman at Seaside High School.

"My best friend" Molly in third grade.

Molly in seventh grade.

The Seaside Signal

congratulates the members of the Class of '97 for their accomplishments, efforts and successful completion of their High School career.

We've been pleased and proud to be a part of those accomplishments, sharing proud student moments with the communities of Seaside, Gearhart and Cannon Beach.

We look forward to providing continued coverage of Seaside High School athletic, academic & extra-curricular events for the Classes of '98, '99, 2000 and all classes to come.

Thanks for the Memories !

Best Wishes to the Graduates and students of Seaside High School

LAST WORD

I thanks

160

Goodbye daylight, hello summer! The end of the year SEABREEZE party involved people who were in it to the last! Back row: Alan Anderson-Priddy, Woodie Webber, Chris Ericksen, Kelsey Hertig, Liam Roley, Michelle Resa, Bob Parsons, Brian Cole, Richie Trucke. Front row: Jan Priddy, Jennifer Wascher (under the pile), Shellie Dennis, Jessica Williams, Emma Beckman, and John Edwards. Not shown, but also a major player the last week: Mandy Grant. Photo by Ian Anderson-Priddy.

We always have a tough time at the end of the year in Yearbook. While most classes are winding down, third period SEABREEZE is gearing up to finish spring sports, graduation, and index. This year we were not able to pick up baseball team photos until Thursday, June 12th. Baccalaureate was Sunday; Graduation was Monday, the 9th. We had our work cut out for us Monday until the pages were mailed Friday.

Every year, we try our best to cover every person and every event at Seaside High School. Every year we fail. We failed to show Erin Miller winning the District Spelling Bee. Both The LARUS and our photographers lost Cinco de Mayo photos, but it happened and it was great fun! Various missing persons were photographed and rephotographed and the negative kept vanishing—this happens every year! Coastal Studies was busy with research, projects involving weather, biology, computers, and universities in the valley. We didn't do them justice. The LARUS completed six big newsmag format issues. Forty seniors were awarded 48 local and 68 regional and national scholarships and grants totalling over $4000,000. Worth mentioning...

Family commitments led Sande Brown to step down as advisor of the school paper. Neil Priddy coached his last team of freshmen volleyball. And handing his position as Head Baseball Coach to Lyons, didn't keep Jim Auld away from the ball field this spring. Bruce Buzzell and Claudette Eskola retired after long and dedicated careers at SHS (see page 120).

We owe thanks to many, many people and there is always the danger we'll forget someone. We will. Thanks to The LARUS, The Daily Astorian, and The Seaside Signal for allowing us to use their photos; to Gary C. Anderson for dozens of trips to deliver and pick up color film from the processers and for bringing coffee that one time (Mandy was close to withdrawal); to those SEABREEZE staff members who stayed after the end; to Sandy Bergerson for helping us keep our accounts; to our Josten's rep Kay Soliday for showing up despite storms and moves; to Kirk Reynolds for writing copy for us even though he wasn't on staff (fourth year contributor); to parents who had to "come back later" while their sons and daughters worked evenings; to The Stand for feeding us; Neil Priddy for visiting during his prep; Suzanne Jackson for nearly always knowing "who is that in the back row of this picture?"; and to all and everyone who bought this book—thank you, & again, thank you.

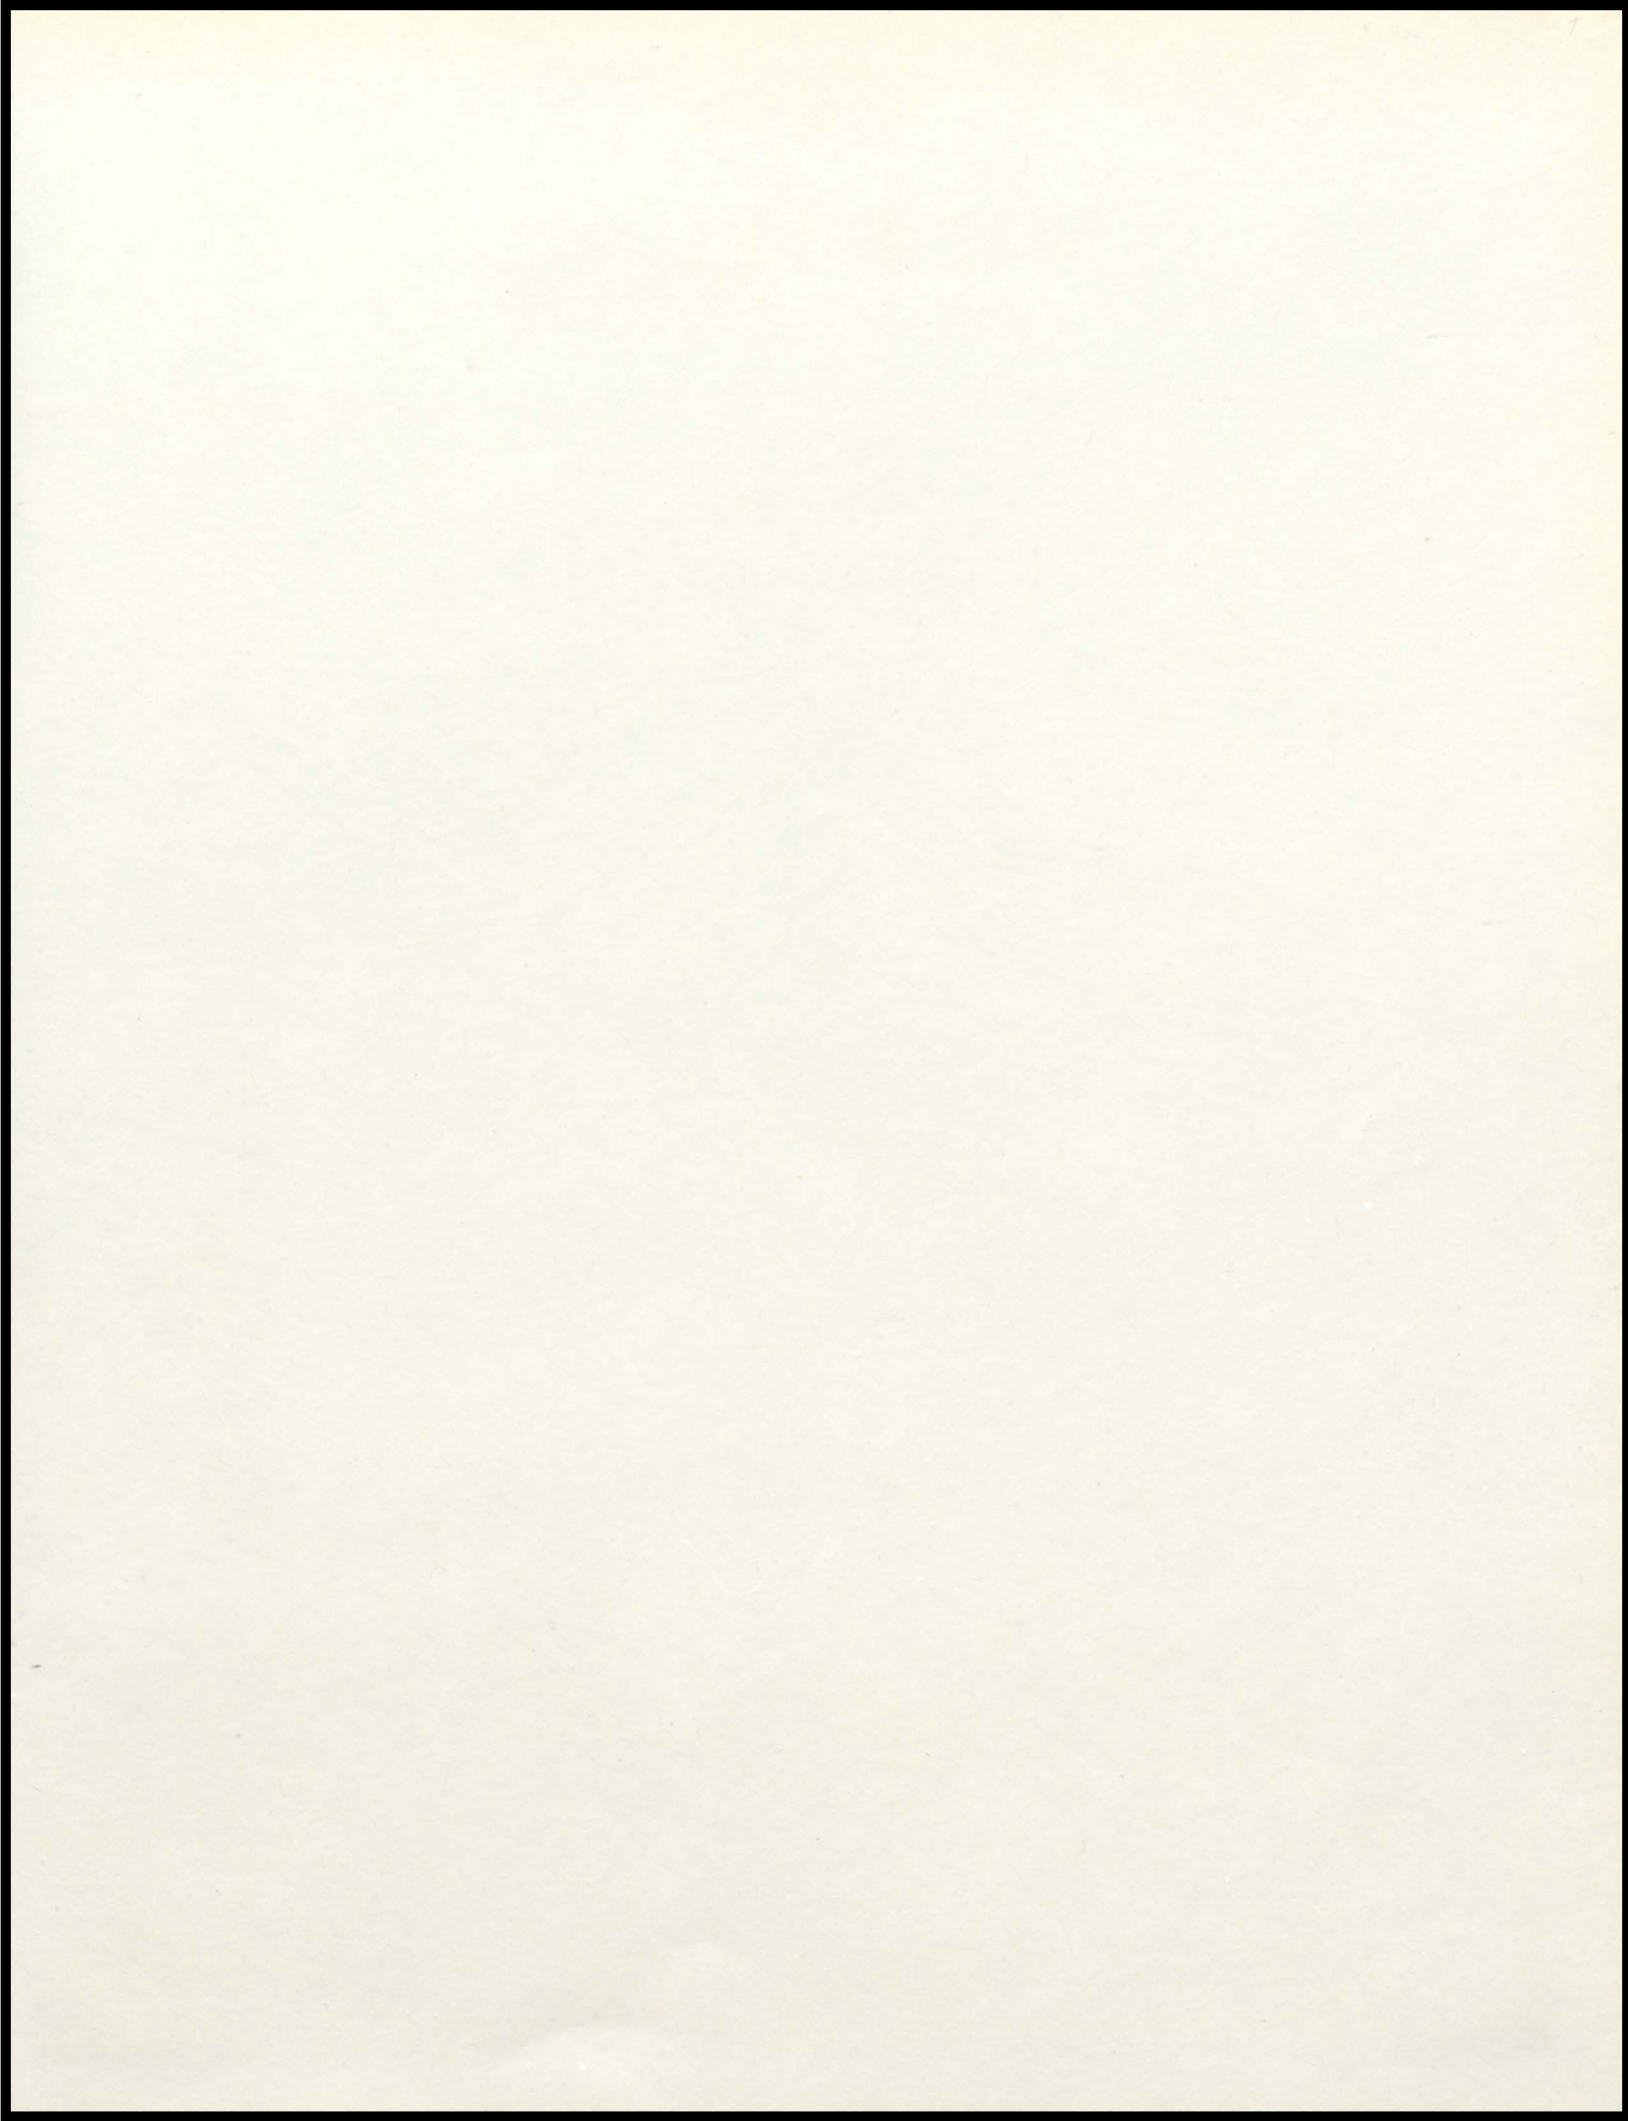

Outgoing ASB President Eric Kranzush reminded his classmates at graduation, "The future is not in the hands of fate, but in ours."

My future could be in here! Nate Hull, Tony Cox, and Lisa Simpson dig through college catalogues discarded by the Counseling Office.

Goodbye buddy. On the very last day of classes, Wednesday, students such as Marc Faulkner cleaned out their lockers, paid fees, said goodbye, found out their grades (sometimes), finished tests, talked, waited around, took photos, filled out surveys, revised portfolios, skipped, and worked on yearbook. Oh, and they finished those last assignments they had been trying to avoid all the rest of the year! Photos by Alan Anderson-Priddy.

The 1997 SEABREEZE was created with a lithograph matt finish cover. Most senior class portraits and underclass portraits were done by professional photographers in the area. Black and white photography was shot and processed by the SEABREEZE staff. Color photos taken by the SEABREEZE staff were developed by Costco. All black and white prints were made in house. Photos were taken using student owned equipment, SHS Minoltas and Fuji 1000 zoom cameras. Individual staff members' by-lines can be found on the pages they completed. Copy was written on Macintosh computers using Microsoft 5.1a for word processing, Aldus Pagemaker 5.0 for layout, and an Apple Laserwriter 16/600 PS for printing.

The SEABREEZE is entirely student generated and submitted to the plant camera ready.

- It's difficult to put a positive spin on a theme which means "needless destruction," because growing up is about needful construction. Mayhem is also the bottom edge of a spring dress. —Ms. Priddy
- The Star-Bellied Sneetches are going to rise up and overthrow Mayhem. —Melanie Kabanuk
- Ms. Priddy, the week before deadlines when no one has their pages done. —Emma Beckman
- Many of us do not realize the Mayhem around us. The permanent deprivation of such things as sleep; which we all suffer from during the school year and results in Mayhem. —Kelsey Hertig
- "...An electric explosion..." Blue Cheer Mayhem is when your mind is in 20 different places at once: take this picture; fix the bridge*, adjust the saddle*, break the nut*, she looks nice; stop saying that; find that page; ect. Mayhem. It's a constant risk winning over (not without) a gloomy day. *Guitar Anatomy —Alan Anderson-Priddy
- Mixed Fruit Mentos—Jennifer Wascher
- As I ponder what Mayhem is, all I can think about is ham. I don't know why, I don't like ham, but I have to admit, last night I did get into the meat drawer and I nibbled on a slice of it. A small slice. —Shellie Dennis
- Mayhem started for me when I entered this truckin' school. —Camille Beers
- Life after high school is Mayhem. —Chris Ericksen
- Needless and willful damage, definitely our class; pure uncut Mayhem. Damage to the freshman, damage to our minds, and damage to the world. And the awesome part is... we are now unleashed. —Kim Repp
- Ms. Priddy running on lack of sleep. —Jessica Williams
- Mayhem is the feeling you get when you finally realize we are all puppets tied to the strings of corruption. So, who pulls your strings? —Jake Baum
- Mayhem, when you take a trip across school to the Frutopia machine for a Strawberry Passion Awareness, only to find out you just have a five dollar bill. After which the late bell rings. —Woodie Webber
- My opinion about Mayhem is it's the only word that truly describes our school, and most importantly, our success. —Bob Parsons
- Permanent bodily disfigurement, describes our school well. —Brian Cole
- Two words: Auld Cinemas. —Liam Roley
- Take your hatred out on me. The groovy sounds that soothe. A barrel full of Monkeys. SILENCE. —John Edwards
- Mayhem is what happens to you when you have a final in every class and five portfolios due all in the same week. —Michelle Resa
- I don't know. I really don't. It's fine with me. —Jena Cooke
- Mayhem — I envision Mayhem as chaos. As a senior, that is exactly what I'm experiencing. We, as a class, have been fighting to prove ourselves and are now facing the end of what we've fought for. Now we flee the nest, and advance to newer, better experiences. —Sara Fox
- Mayhem fits how I have felt. This year has been very chaotic!!! —Casey Fulmer
- Snowboarding is like rice, I like rice. It sucks my will to live. —Richie Trucke
